

Milan Girl

The Fashionista who has it all under control

This is the Amazon woman of today, whose relationship with her body is carefully thought out. The idea is to control her body, to perfect it, to master it in order to use it as a tool of seduction and a means to power. Think Sophia Loren, Monica Bellucci or the ultra-sexy 'Velina' showgirls epitomising the Berlusconi era: the curvaceous seductress fuelling collective memory for decades. The Lombardy capital is in itself a fashion showcase: Italian designers and couturiers like Armani and Valentino have forged their burning desire for brand names, wherever they go. Including on the 5,000 km of private beaches where, on her deckchair, she attracts attention in her bikini, trikini or "aperitivo" swimsuit. This is a VIP heaven of fiesta and glamour straight from La Dolce Vita.

Radiant and over-the-top, she controls every aspect of her appearance down to the very last detail. Strong-willed and determined, her body empowers her and she uses and abuses her feminine wiles to control the world around her. A James Bond Girl in the making...

“Absolutly fashion”

It's her style

“A woman who never makes any fashion faux-pas, she loves very minimal looks or oversized styles, either way she's got to stand out from the crowd! Holidays are a time to go back to being a teenager, meeting boys, hanging out, having a gossip, catching some rays”

Totally under control
